My dear Mr. Laight

After all I think it best not to trouble the Hon Mrs. Rothschild - I am inclined to follow my first instinct and what you thought was best to do and need them the better regardless of any consequence though I must see my lawyer again on the subject - I have nothing to fear or to be ashamed of my actions - My whole life I endeavored to act in the purest and kindest of manner to every body and was always ready to help anyone in need and never asked for any thanks for myself - During these last days I devoted more than a year for the good of our countrymen working day and night to alleviate ^{their} sufferings and whilst I have the fullest satisfaction that I have been the means of doing some good I feel pale for rewarded me poorly for it - Perhaps I am to be blamed for having raised myself up with a class of people that I would never have associated with before but even this I did out of charitable motives - To let them say and do what they like - I have the self satisfaction that I have been justified all along by honest motives and upholding up the cause Firm the cause of rightness With best regards

Yours sincerely
Jas. F. Elberwein

P.S. The enclosed letter led to all the trouble I am under - But it is written with dictation or otherwise.
