

Rome IV
Via Tristone 183
January 15th
1925

Dear Sir and Maister!

Thousand thanks for your kind and good letter of Dec. 22th!
What pity that the fine barock Terracotta can't enter into your Swiss Cottage! I thank you the same for having undertaken - belas without success - some of your friends.

You have no idea how glad I was on receiving your so kind card from Paris written together with our common friend

G. Müntz. It is really a great pity that this exceptional man is obliged to live in Vienna, where he is not at all on his right place, in this Vienna, which now become poor in all way, poor of ideas, men and money.

With the greatest pleasure I look at your next and, as I hope, longer visit in Rome and I expect, you will be a free man here and you will enjoy with my modest help Rome and its fairer surroundings, which will give you a load of satisfaction.
The Anno Santo till now is a great discussion - fortunately.

People believed that there would come about a million of visitors, what number had increased enormously the standard of life already now very expensive, but still now came very few visitors and they disappeared in the ordinary crowd.

My and the wishes of my family from the year, which began, come somewhat late, but I hope Mrs. Lasson and you will accept them the same. They come from my heart. Believe me, dear Sir, yours truly and very devoted

Wolfgang Pollatz
