Dear Sir,

We have received this morning a letter from your secretary informing us that you were satisfied with the manner in which we had handled the affair of Sir Charles Markham.!

Enclosed with the letter were two cheques for £120 and £7, which together make £1 more than the 10% on the 1200 guineas. We will therefore place this small sum to the credit of your account.

We have already acknowledged Sir Charles Markham's letter, informing him that we had forwarded you the cheque, and as it was made out to you personally, it is for you or your secretary to send due acknowledgement. We enclose the address to which the receipt for the cheque should be sent.

Yours faithfully,

Wallis & Son
